Editorial .......................................................................................................................... 4
About the Authors ........................................................................................................... 6
Phonological-based assessment and teaching within a first year reading program in New Zealand................................. 9
Keith Greaney & Alison Arrow

ABRACADABRA for magic under which conditions? Case studies of a web-based literacy intervention in the Northern Territory .......... 33
Helen Harper, Janet Helmer, Tess Lea, Kalotina Chalkiti, Susan Emmett & Jennifer Wolgemuth

Word identification, metacognitive knowledge, motivation and reading comprehension:
An Australian study of Grade 3 and 4 pupils ................................................................. 51
Christina E. van Kraayenoord, Andrea Beinicke, Matthias Schlagmüller & Wolfgang Schneider

Threshold to discipline discourse: An English literature first year limen into advanced literacy .................................................. 69
Susan Carter & Russell Poole

‘A whole new literacy’: teachers’ understanding of students’ digital learning at home ................................................................................ 82
Eileen Honan

Interactive Creative Technologies: Changing learning practices and pedagogies in the writing classroom ........................................ 99
Christine Edwards-Groves

Notes for Authors ........................................................................................................ 115